Quotas in the Workplace

Women in Engineering and College of Leadership
& Management Dinner

Join industry leaders and like-minded professionals for an evening of topical conversation at an iconic venue.

6:00pm - 10:30pm, Thursday 11 October 2018

Queensland Cricketers Club

Gabba Towers, 411 Vulture St, Woolloongabba

Diversity, whether that be of gender, cultural heritage and many more aspects of life, is a valuable asset and should be celebrated in a society where everyone is given access to equal rights.

In the world of engineering, a number of initiatives are in place to increase gender diversity in the workplace which has resulted in an overall growth of female representation in the industry from 4% to 15%.

One initiative which often receives mixed feedback is the inclusion of quotas in both public and private sectors.

WIE Queensland and CLM invite you to this interactive dinner to join our distinguished panel, headlined by key speaker and Engineers Australia CEO, Peter McIntyre, in answering the challenging questions: Are quotas worth it? Are they fair or are they undermining progress? Are they sustainable? What more should be done?

Join us for drinks and a three course meal at the Queensland Cricketer's Club for an evening of open discussion and networking where everyone is welcomed to weigh in on the conversation.
