

College of Leadership &
Management

How we champion your leadership journey

Great engineering leaders are crucial to building 22nd Century ready communities and to enable Australia to excel on the world stage.

The College of Leadership & Management attracts  develops  empowers  connects engineering leaders in Australia to support your engineering leadership journey by:

Providing professional development

Giving you opportunities to develop your skills, build your networks and to continually evolve and excel as leaders and managers

Promoting engineering leadership

To attract more engineers pursuing a leadership journey and to more powerfully influence issues on which we should have a voice

Providing a local network

Supporting your leadership journey through a rich program of engagement and development opportunities across the country

Connecting with engineering leaders

Recognising that you benefit from interacting with, and learning from, each other

Attracting members

To continually grow and broaden the depth of talent and expertise you can access

Diversifying our membership

To provide you with access to a diverse community of leaders, backgrounds and experiences

Your Engineering Leadership Journey

The leadership journey is about your personal development as you build on your skills and experience, expanding your capabilities and contribution to society over a rewarding and satisfying career.

As you progress along this journey you may need to understand the changing role of engineers in a rapidly changing world, you may work in areas of practice that transcend traditional engineering disciplines, you may find increasing levels of managerial work and you can expect opportunities to hone and practice your leadership skills.

The College is home to areas of practice that also transcend traditional engineering disciplines such as asset management, cost engineering, risk engineering, systems engineering and project management and may provide pathways to Chartered for engineers working in these areas.

The College of Leadership and Management is here to support you on your career journey. It is a place to meet and network with other people on similar journeys and for you to participate in activities that advance your knowledge and capability.

engineersaustralia.org.au/Communities-And-Groups/Colleges/Leadership-And-Management

Our reach is wide and our vision is big.

We believe it is time for all engineers to be on a leadership journey - wherever you are in your career!