A Change for the Better (Improving through change)

Managing through periods of change and improvement is one of the greatest challenges to modern organisation. The primary reason for any change is to improve an organisation. Please join us at the College of Leadership and Management Queensland (CLM Q) as we host several renowned speakers, from several diverse organisations and backgrounds, who will present their experiences to share their knowledge on this important topic. Our guests will discuss their industry experience and lessons learnt, garnered during periods of great change. They will explain how the change opportunity was an improvement opportunity and share their knowledge in this area. Our session will focus upon:

- Reviewing organisational performance to identify improvement opportunities
- Planning and resourcing change
- The challenges of implementing change
- Measuring the effectiveness of change
Speakers

Todd Battley

(Incoming) Chief Executive
AECOM, Australia New Zealand

As Australia New Zealand Chief Executive from 1 October 2017, Todd Battley will lead a team of around 4,000 designers, engineers, planners, scientists, and project managers in 25 offices across Australia and New Zealand. He will be a member of AECOM’s global Executive Committee and Asia-Pacific leadership team. Todd will have overall responsibility for AECOM’s Australia New Zealand operations and the development of its global design, build, finance and operate strategy in the region.

He joined the Townsville office of AECOM shortly after graduating as a civil engineer from James Cook University in 1996. Since then he has held a number of senior leadership roles, including his current role as Managing Director for the Northern & Western Australia region with responsibility for Queensland, West Australia and the Northern Territory.

Todd’s relentless focus on staff and client service excellence enabled him to build a resilient and dynamic business despite the highs and lows of the resource driven markets of Northern Australia. Todd plays an active role in improving gender diversity across the infrastructure sector through his participation in the Leaders in Infrastructure – Diversity & Inclusion series, which brings together clients in both Brisbane and Townsville.

Basil Harvey

Executive Director, Educational Support Services

As Executive Director, Educational Support Services, Basil is responsible for connecting the key educational stakeholders across the region to provide quality educational products and services as well as shaping the student experience at TAFE Queensland SkillsTech.

Basil has 25 years’ experience in the Vocational Education and Training (VET) and Higher Education (HE) sectors, and brings this knowledge to his quality-focused role. He works with the region’s Senior Executive Team to ensure that the educational delivery and quality at TAFE Queensland SkillsTech is always at its best.

Basil has held a number of senior leadership positions within the VET sector including; Head of School of Engineering and Design at Southbank Institute of Technology, Director of Faculty, (Business, Design and Creative Industries) at Gold Coast Institute of TAFE and Educational Manager (IT and Creative Industries) Moreton Institute of TAFE.

Basil has an Associate Diploma in Civil Engineering, a Bachelor of Adult and Vocational Teaching, a Graduate Certificate in On-line and Distance Learning and a Master’s Degree in Education and Leadership and Management. He is a graduate member of the Australian Institute of Company Directors.

David Pich
Chief Executive, Institute of Managers and Leaders
As the first national Chief Executive of the Institute of Managers and Leaders (previously called the Australian Institute of Management), one of Australia’s oldest, largest and most pre-eminent Membership based organisations, David advocates for sound management and leadership practise in the workplace and beyond.

He began his career in a senior HR role at Hewlett-Packard, and followed this in executive roles in Marketing, PR and Consulting at PWC and Computer Associates. His first CEO appointment was at a medical research start-up at a major Teaching Hospital in Sydney.

David is a graduate of Cambridge University and Western Sydney University. He sits on the Board of the Intensive Care Foundation of Australian & New Zealand and lives in Brisbane with his wife and two daughters. He has a passion for long distance running, although the sub-3hour marathon continues to elude him.
