Pathways to Leadership
A College of Leadership and Management Breakfast

Insights on how to become a leader from today’s engineering executives

Join the College of Leadership and Management to hear the inspiring stories from three prominent engineering leaders and the pathways they took to leadership.

This session has been designed to provide you with insights that can be applied to your own leadership journey.

You will:
- learn the skills, qualities and mindset to become a leader
- understand the different pathways to gaining engineering management positions
- network with like-minded professionals in the SA engineering community

There will also be opportunity to ask the speakers questions for further advice during a panel Q&A.

Those aspiring towards management and leadership roles should attend.
