Cross Cultural Awareness Training Course

An understanding of Australia’s early history and culture

Are you interested in learning about Australia’s history and traditional cultures? Do you want to understand how to collaborate more effectively with people from different backgrounds?

With a growing diversity of languages, races, cultures and values in Australia today we could all benefit from an improved understanding and appreciation of cultural values and practices. This workshop will seek to unpack the various nuances and historical contexts of Australia’s traditional cultures, helping attendees to work and interact in this space.

“Being culturally aware is the beginning of a lifetime journey. The first step towards coming together to enhance our society…”

At this Cross-Cultural Awareness Training Course, the participants will:

- Develop an understanding of Indigenous culture, society & history
- Understand non-Indigenous & Indigenous attitudes towards each other
- Promote self-reflection and consideration of diverse backgrounds
- Enhance cross-cultural working abilities
- Develop tools for contributing positively to crossing cultural projects and environments

This workshop is open to EWB Australia and Engineers Australia members. Places are limited, so early registration is recommended. Up to 6 CPD points can be claimed for attendance. Refreshments will be provided.

Date: Friday 6th of April
Cost: $80 for EA and EWB members, $50 for students $150 for non-affiliated member
Time: 8:30 – 12:30 pm
Location: Arup Sydney Offices – 210 Kent Street, Sydney, 2000

This workshop is delivered by EWB Connect, an initiative of EWB Australia. EWB Connect aims to inspire, educate and train individuals and organisations in the skills required for effective pro bono practice and people-centred approaches.
